BASEBALL PRACTICE AT PENN NEXT WEEK

Cocher Cariss Plans to Call Out Squad for Outdoor Drill; Eddie Farrell to Report for Infield

SHAKE-UP IN CREWS

DR. WALTER CARISS, coach of the University of Pennsylvania baseball team, expects to institute daily practice drills for his candidates starting a week from tomorrow. The veteran tutor of the Red and Blue diamond team is a great believer in early outdoor work and plans to get the entire squad out next week, if the weather and the condition of Franklin Field permit.

For the first time in many years the pitchers and catchers have had no indoor practice. A lack of space in the gymnasium with classes interfering prevented the usual drills indoors. As a result Coach Cariss decided to do without the indoor drill altogether and lengthen the outdoor practice.

Bundled in sweaters and with heavy clothing, the terrors of the wind that sweep Franklin Field during the winter months will not hinder nor in any way injure the players, according to Dr. Cariss. Outdoor work is by a long way the best if the men do a little gymnasium work during the off months. "I am going to have a big squad and a good team during the 1922 campaign. Interest in the team is greater than I have experienced since 1918. I am confident that before I announced officially that indoor practice was off, I was besieged by enthusiastic players who wanted to show their scars early. It was necessary to go through the February and the lure of the diamond is calling, the same men are anxious to get started outdoors."

"As our season opens on April 1 we will need at least six weeks to get into shape for the long and hard season that faces us. That is why I am calling the candidates out next week. Pitchers and catchers will be called out first. Finally they get their arms limbered up, while the fielders can regain their batting and fielding eyes by working out on the soft ground."

Dr. Cariss was asked about the prospects for the coming season, and he stated that he had a very good team. "This year with the experience they gained last season such men as Lewry, Stout and Larsen should be a good team and the freshman from the 1921 team report. Last year we had a fairly successful season considering all things. I expect to have a very good team."

"Behind the box we will have Billy Maher and Dinny Foy. For first base Marshall Parn or Mike Whitehill, the former a freshman last season, should fight it out. At second we have Gleason a freshman; George Sullivan and one or two others.

"In the outfield we will feel the loss of Bud Myers and Herman Harvey, but we have Maxey, Moxley and Mouradian, all of last year's team, and a number of first-year men. The outfield should be very strong. It should be a great year for us. I should like to see the team win a national championship. I should like to see the team win a national championship."

When Penn faces West Virginia on the court at Weightman Hall tonight, Label Goldblatt, hero of the Princeton basketball team, will be seen starting the contest at guard in place of Pos Miller. While neither Coach Eddie McNeill nor Joe Fogarty, his aide-de-camp, have made any statements regarding changes in the line-up, the students and close followers of the team expect to see a shift made in the team.

The inability of the Penn players to shoot foul goals and the case with which Goldblatt, the former Southern High School lad, sends the leather skimming through the net from the free-throw mark leads many to believe that the Red and Blue coaching staff will start the star of last year's freshman team tonight.

Bill Graves, while playing a great game on the basketball court, has not been up to the standard of former Penn foul-goal shooters and his poor exhibition against Princeton may mean the playing of Goldblatt at guard. Miller is exceptionally strong guard and has been playing good basketball all season, but he is the only member of the quintet, not on last year's championship team, who has not played in a game. He was bought in favor of Goldblatt.

West Virginia has one of the best quintets in its history. To date the team has scored five wins out of seven games played, and the net from the free-throw mark leads many to believe that the Red and Blue coaching staff will start the star of last year's freshman team tonight.

Stahl May Coach Purdue. Coach Stahl, who has been coaching at Purdue, has been asked by the athletic association to coach the team at Penn. Stahl is a well-known coach and has coached at several universities. He is expected to coach the team at Penn next season.

Boston Climate Nearly Wrecks Penn Relay Team

The climate in Boston evidently does not agree with some members of Lawson Robertson's track team, judging by the comments of the runners who competed there Saturday night. Coach Meredith, brother of the illustrious Meredith, spent eight hours in bed after arriving there, as the result of a heavy cold, getting up at 9 o'clock Saturday night to race against Dartmouth. After the race Larry Brown, captain of the team, was stricken with a cold that may keep him and the Penn team out of the national championships at Buffalo Saturday night.

WARRIOR TOO SPEEDY FOR COATESVILLE

Three Baskets at Start of Second Half Win for Skeeters. Players in Mix-Up.

The Camden Eastern League basketball five traveled to Coatesville last evening and added another game to the right side of the ledger, score 28 to 20. The Skeeters came through with the victory by playing rings around the home team in the second half. For the score at the end of the first period was 14 to 10. In favor of the Coates.

"The home boys had scored numerous goals in the first half, but in the second it was different. The first three plays were centered around Dave Kerr on 'guards down' and on the three occasions Dandy Dave went through for two-pointers, which sent Camden into the lead by two points.

"Soup" Campbell then came through with his only field goal and from then on the rest was easy. Toward the finish of the game it was decided to yank Ray Cross in favor of Herb Steen, a home boy, and the change nearly was responsible for a riot.

Urged on by the home crowd, Steen pulled considerable rough stuff, and in one of the corners Referee Baetzled had tossed the ball on three or four occasions. The game ended in a draw. Finally it was between Kerr and Steen. The latter went in head downward and came into contact with Dave's stomach and the fireworks began.

Referee Baetzled separated the combatants and Roy Steele also jumped in between the players. One wild fan in the bleachers tried to get into the cage, but the veteran, Baetzled, calmly waved him back and he took over a few minutes later and all was lovely.

After the game all the players retreated to one of the Coatesville restaurants. On the way to the train a crowd of rooters was passed and some one threw a bottle into the crowd, but they were not aware that Coatesville had Camden players were together. The mischievous Elmer Ripley, of Coatesville, in the back, but he was not hurt. He showed up at the train.

Interest in the Manufacturers' League race centers in the game to be played by Art Loom and American Railway Express. If they come through with victories this week they will meet in the final game of the second half with a clean slate and the winner would then meet Philadelphia Terminal, first half champion, for the title.

One of the best games of the season is expected tonight at Yonah Hall, 2727 West Columbia avenue, when Monotype clashes with Fleisher. Both are evenly matched. In the other contest American Railway Express opposes Philadelphia Plate Glass, and there are predictions made by the glass players that they will upset the dope by hand-picking railroads a defeat.

Downtown fans will witness two of the best basketball games in the city when St. Elizabeth plays Aquinas at the latter's hall, at Eighteenth and Morris streets. St. Elizabeth will have Kesting and Miller, forwards; Moorehead, center; Blinn and Wilson, guards. Aquinas will have its regular line-up and a hard-fought game should result.

FITZGERALD IN THIRD ROUND AT OLYMPIA

Joe's Body Punches in Third Round Knock Out of Australian. Scores 3 Knockdowns.

"GIVE IT to him in the stomach, Joe; he doesn't like it there," yelled 'Frisco Legs across the ring from Ned Fitzgerald's corner to Joe Tipitla between the second and third rounds at the Olympia last night. And the 'Frisco person had the right idea.

One minute fifty-two seconds after the bell sounded starting the third round the Australian was lying crumpled up on the mat, mouth wide open, gasping for breath. Twice previously Fitz had been dropped for counts of nine and the third time Ned went down, Referee Frank O'Brien knew quite well that it wasn't necessary to practice arithmetic any more.

When Ned Fitzgerald's corner where he could overhear instructions by Charley Harvey to his charge, Legs had his ears wide open. When Ned returned to his chair at the end of the second session, mouth and nose bleeding, and with his gloved hands rubbing his stomach, 'Frisco got the mufferings from Fitz, who was hurt from Tipitla's body punches.

That was Legs' cue—and he shouted his instructions to the local lambshead. Tipitla came tearing out of his corner, hooking his left to Fitzgerald's body, and then he did not direct a blow toward antipodean head, but kept smashing away at his opponent's midsection.

As Fitzgerald tried to raise one clinch, Tipitla, standing with his right arm raised, once more took a shot against the side of Ned's body. He went down. Taking advantage of the count permitted, Fitzgerald got up and sent a body punch to Tipitla's chest, but Tipitla pulled himself away.

Then Fitzgerald backed up across the ring, with Tipitla in hot pursuit. Another left smash to the body felled the foreigner, once more for the third count. When he gained his feet Fitz almost doubled up in an effort to keep his body out of range of Tipitla's vicious smashes.

But he was in there lighting as he never did before. Bringing that mighty left mauler up almost from his knee, he sunk his padded fist into the pit of Fitzgerald's stomach, and he stopped to the canvas in a heap. The wind had been knocked completely out of his system, and O'Brien motioned to come into the ring.

It was Tipitla's bout from the outset. Although Joe had his left eye slightly cut in the first round, he carried that session off in a second round, with an avalanche of wallops to Fitzgerald's head and body.

Tipitla weighed in at 133½, two pounds more than the Australian. Really, the best battle of the night was probably the opening contest, with Young Sherlock 125 and Zeimer, within an ace of knocking out Johnny Tully, 131, and a brother of Jimmy Tully, 131, near the finish of the sixth round. The fight was stopped after 45 seconds and sock 'em set to from the opening gong.

Both youngsters connected with some terrific punches, but neither could score a knockdown. With the second round half over, Sherlock unceremoniously snatched to Tully's chin and Johnny's knees sagged. But instead of following up with his best punches, he took a knockdown was content to go along outboxing his rugged foe.

NORTH PHILLY BACKSTOP SIGNED BY LITTLE ROCK

Alfred Spohrer, Captain of Team. One of City's Best Catchers. Alfred Spohrer, star catcher of the North Philadelphia baseball team last year, and regarded as one of the best backstops in the city, has been signed by the Little Rock for the coming season. Spohrer was also captain of the uptown team last year.

He has already played away from this city, having been sent by Tom Turner, former scout of the A's to Winston-Salem. On May 18 of last year a Brooklyn scout was attracted by his playing. He reported to Brooklyn and was ordered to go back South, but some misunderstanding arose and Spohrer would not return.

He played with the North Phils the remainder of the season. John Allen, president of Little Rock, watched him in several games and signed him besides getting his release from Brooklyn. Spohrer lives at 1400 North Twenty-eighth street.
